Discovering Mexico

Oct 5 – 14, 2006

Join us for our first in a series of small group travel/photo workshops led by Margo Moss photographer, world traveler, and instructor. She is on the faculty at the New School University in New York City, and has been leading groups and creating photography workshops for many years. Margo has a Masters Degree in teaching and holds a post-masters certification as a Learning Disabilities Specialist. She originated the children’s photography program at the Newark Museum. In her travel workshops, Margo specializes in giving each participant individualized instruction.

In Discovering Mexico, Margo & her expert staff take us to fabulous Mexico City, and then onto Guanajuato where we will photograph & enjoy the world class Cervantes Festival. In Discovering Mexico it is our goal to have you come back with some of the best photos you have ever taken. Bring along your sense of adventure and lots of cards and/or film. No photo experience necessary - all cameras welcome. Limited to 12 participants. Workshop cost: $2150. Be sure to ask about our “first in a series” discount.
